

The Daily Courant.

Saturday, June 26. 1714.

London, June 26.

Yesterday arrived the Mail due from Holland.

From the Amsterdam Gazette, dated July 3.

Petersbourg, June 3.

TH E Czar having put to Sea with his Fleet the 20th past, 'tis not doubted he is by this Time arrived at Revel. M. Sluyfter is contriving a perpetual Motion, his Czarian Majesty having promised 30000 Roebels to the Person who shall discover it.

Wilna, June 4. 10000 Muscovites are already arrived at Riga, and 20000 more are expected there, which are to be embarked to make a Descent on Sweden. This Country suffers very much by Drought. It appears more and more, that the Nobility have resolved to proceed to great Extremities, if the Saxon Troops be not withdrawn from Lithuania.

From the Hague Courant, dated July 4.

Stockholm, June 16. The English Minister Mr. Jackson, and the Dutch Resident, have presented a Memorial to the Senate, complaining of the taking of the Ships belonging to the Merchants of their Nations; upon which the Council have assembled, but 'tis not known what they have determined. Count Falkenberg, a Member of the Senate, died last Sunday; so that there are but two now living (namely the Counts Guldenstern and Piper) of those who composed the Senate when the King left his Dominions.

From the Hague Courant, dated July 4.

Frankfort, June 27. We have received a Letter by the Way of Italy, from the Camp before Barcelona, dated the 1st Instant; as follows.

The Bombarding of the Town has been carried on so vigorously, that above 1000 Houses are beaten down or burnt; by which the Inhabitants are but the more enraged and resolute. 'Tis impossible to make a better Defence than they do, firing hard from their Cannon and Mortars, which costs us abundance of Men. Yesterday at Noon it was resolved in a Council of War, that it appearing the People of the open Country were daily taking up Arms again, the Garisons of Martorel and Mataro should be reinforced, and the bombarding of the Town forborn; Carriages being wanting, and the Duke of Popoli and M. Orry being deceived in their Hope of compelling by that Means the Barceloners to surrender. 'Tis said those 2 Gentlemen have sent Expresses to France, to desire Assistance of the most Christian King; and that in the mean time they have besought the Count de Fiennes to take Care of the Sea-Coast as far as Mataro and of the Plain of Vich. The greatest Part of the Army is at present detached, to disperse 8000 Miquelets and Volunteers who over-run the open Country.

From the Hague Courant, dated July 4.

Baden, June 24. In the Conferences held the 21st between the Imperial and French Plenipotentiaries, the Affair of Catalonia was taken into Debate. The former signified, that Prince Eugene had written to them, that when that Affair should come to be considered, the French Ministers would act reasonably in it, the French Court being willing to take on themselves the Guarantee of the Liberties and Privileges which Spain should grant to the Catalonians, of which the Marshal de Villars had given such Hope to his Highness at Rastat, that the Effect could not be doubted: That therefore they the said Imperial Plenipotentiaries were desirous to bring this Affair into an orderly Conference, without Loss of time, to the end the poor abandoned Catalonians and the City of Barcelona might be saved from the Ruine with which they are threatened. The French endeavoured to evade this Proposition, alledging, that the Restoration of the Elector of Bavaria ought first to be settled; and then it might be considered in what Manner to relieve the Catalonians. They likewise signified, that France had obliged it self by Treaty with Spain, to help to carry on the Siege of Barcelona by its Troops and Shipping; that if the Catalonians would not surrender upon certain Terms concerted between the Kings of France and Spain (which Terms the Marshal de Villars had already sent to Prince Eugene, or would soon send them,) then no other Offers of Accommodation would be accepted either at Madrid, or at Paris; and that therefore 'twas needless to dwell on this Affair, seeing it could not be to any manner of Purpose.

Hague, July 3. Sig. Tron, Ambassador, from the Republick of Venice, to the Court of England, is arrived here in his Way thither. M. Gossinga being returned hither from Paris, made Report to Day in the Assembly of the States General, of his Embassy at the Court of France. Baron Bothmar is gone for England, to notify to the Queen the Death of the late Princess Sophia. Mr. Mackenfy, Envoy Extraordinary from her Britannick Majesty to the Czar, is arrived here from London. The States

States have written a Letter to the most Christian King, to thank his Majesty for the good Offices he has used, with respect to the Conclusion of the Treaty of Peace and Commerce between Spain and this State; and the President of the Assembly of the States, has returned Thanks to the French Ambassador M. de Chateauneuf, for the Services he has done in that Affair.

Dublin, June 19. On Tuesday last, John Rily, Alexander Bourk, and Martin Carrol, were tried at the Queen's-Bench, for lifting Men for the Service of the Pretender; and were found guilty of High-Treason, and received Sentence to be Drawn, Hanged, and Quartered.
